NANCE O'NEIL AS LEAH

SHE IS GREETED BY A CROWDED HOUSE.

Is Satisfying and Triumphant—Miss Foster is Equally Satisfactory in an Equally Difficult and Trying Role.

The largest house of the present theatrical season was drawn last night to see Nance O'Neil and the McKee Rankin Company in Leah. Judge by the satisfaction and commendation expressed Miss O'Neil scored the greatest triumph she has yet achieved before a Honolulu audience. In Leah she has a role in which her superb physique and her masterful, dominating presence seem the very essence and quality of the character. But as the play is arranged they make more difficult the denouement and closing scenes. So thoroughly does Miss O'Neil engage the sympathies and the sense of justice of her audience in behalf of Leah, that it is indeed hard to make mild forgiveness and gentle self-abnegation satisfying. That Miss O'Neil was able to do it is a crowning tribute to her art.

But little if any less exacting was the character presented by Miss Gertrude Foster. To present the character of Leah so that the very gentleness of it, the unselfish constancy, the equilibrium of maidenly and domestic virtues, all standing in the way of the supreme that the grand passion is capable of, shall not create absolute aversion for these qualities and the character that embodies them, is a very high artistic triumph. And Miss Foster achieved it.

As Father Lorenz the village magistrate, H. A. Weaver was clear cut, capable and thoroughly good. Herbert Carr, in the passion tossed scenes of struggle between love and filial duty, rose to all the demands made of him. Mr. Trimble as the Apostate Jew made all that was possible out of the somewhat dissonant treatment the playwright has given the character.

The comedy elements of which there are very few to relieve the tension of the strongly wrought theme were well handled by Leslie Morosco, the village barber, and Leech, Mrs. McVicker, the hostess of the inn, William Henderson, Frank Robbins and James Crane. For the Saturday matinee, the new East Lynne, written by and produced under the personal direction of McKee Rankin, and Saturday evening, Oliver Twist, are the attractions.

PHYSICAL EXERCISE.

The following exercise is said to be excellent for correcting and straightening curved shoulders: Take a perfectly erect position. Place the heels together with the toes turned out at an angle of 45 degrees. Then drop the arms by the side, inflating and raising the chest to the full capacity, muscularly, keeping the chin well drawn in and the crown of the head feeling as if it were attached to a cord suspended to the ceiling above. Slowly raise upon the balls of the feet to the greatest possible height, thereby exercising all the muscles of the legs and body, and then drop once more into the standing position without swaying the body backward out of the upright, straight line. Repeat the exercise standing first on one foot and then on the other. It is really remarkable what a straightening out power it has upon round shoulders and crooked backs.

A FINE SWORD.

Perhaps the most precious sword in existence is that of the Gakwar of Buroda. Its hilt and belt are encrusted with diamonds, rubies and emeralds, and it is valued at $220,000. The Shah of Persia possesses a sword valued at $10,000. There are some costly swords in India, and both the Czar and Sultan possess jeweled sabers of great price. The most valuable sword in England is one that was presented to Lord Wolsley. The hilt is set with brilliants, and it is valued at $2,000.

STRONG CONSTITUTION.

"For forty years I was not in bed a day on account of illness, but I have recently been threatened with kidney and bladder difficulty, and sometimes with the grip. Believing an ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure, I resorted to Hood's Sarsaparilla and it has kept me in good health." Mrs. W. E. Beckwith, Lompoc, California.

Bailey's Bike Bits

ITEMS OF INTEREST TO BICYCLE BUYERS AND READERS.

The signs are that prices on well known makes of wheels will be cut, and cut deep. One very large maker has made a cut of 33 1-3 per cent, and at the same time advertises the fact that '99 wheels will be the same as '98, with 30 inch wheels as an extra line at $5.00 more.

With cheap bikes and good, the trade may be said to have only just begun in the matter of quantity of sales. One hundred wheels at $10.00 can be sold where one would sell at $100, or even $75. Always we have the cheapest bike in town. A good second hand bike for $15.00. Good for a track or to learn on. Good value anyway, anywhere.

A special feature made of contracts to repair punctures and to clean your wheel for $1 per month.
